TASK

Infographic

Select an animal of your choice and conduct a short investigative project on it, taking notes about important and interesting features of the animal.

Write a brief introduction to clearly introduce readers to the animal. Then create an infographic about the animal, using a format that will highlight the animal's key features. End with a brief concluding statement summing up the most important details about the animal. Consider the following when researching your chosen animal.

Remember to:

- think about the features of the animal that make it special or unique.
- think of the best way to present that information to people who don't know about the animal.
- revisit the texts you've read in the module. Analyze the infographics and think about how they present information clearly and effectively.
- display strong command of prepositional phrases and sentence structure in your introduction and conclusion.
